

A close-up photograph of a single, large rose in full bloom. The petals are a rich, vibrant orange-red color, with some showing lighter, almost yellowish-orange hues towards the center. The rose is set against a background of dark green, glossy leaves, which are slightly out of focus. The lighting is soft, highlighting the texture of the petals.

Luke 08:25 And he said unto them, Where is your faith? And they being afraid wondered, saying one to another, What manner of man is this! for he commandeth even the winds and water, and they obey him.